

Tedre is a Professor at the School of Computing, University of Eastern Finland. He is the author of The Science of Computing: Shaping a Discipline (Taylor and Francis, 2014). He has held various professorships in five countries, and is currently working on the philosophy of computer science, ICT4D, computer science education, and educational technology.